The RECORD of the HAMPDEN-SYDNEY ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

VOLUME TWENTY | OCTOBER, 1945 | NUMBER ONE

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The Sixth Year of the Alumni Fund

THE report for the Alumni Fund of the year just ended in shown in the July issue of the RECORD. This statement shows a remarkable increase in the contributions to this Fund. It demonstrates the wisdom of those who conceived the idea and set the Fund in motion.

There is nothing compulsory about it, but an opportunity is afforded to each Alumnus to contribute if he likes and such amount as his interest and means permit. While a substantial endowment prompted by some man of means interested in the college will mean much, the support from the Alumni really means more. The funds which they contribute constitute not only a substantial material aid, but the interest which they thus manifest goes beyond the material assistance in promoting the welfare of the college.

This issue of the RECORD is especially directed to the launching of the sixth year of the Fund, and the editors take this occasion to call especial attention to it and to express the hope that the interest and loyalty heretofore shown may continue and increase from year to year.

In the nature of things, this college, as is the case with almost all others, is passing through a critical period—it was critical during the war years and will be no less critical during the first years of peace and far-reaching readjustment.

The Atomic Bomb

WHILE it was due to this marvelous achievement of science that the Japanese War was brought to such a sudden and dramatic conclusion, and we are grateful that Providence gave us this discovery, we cannot but feel that it has opened up a terrifying secret of power. The energy which it unleashes makes the thinking man tremble at its consequences. Have we delved too deeply into the secrets of omnipotence; have we reared a Frankenstein which may destroy its creator? If we can now harness and control this mighty power, this force may be turned to uses which will advance the well-being and comfort of mankind. At the same time, in the hands of those bent on conquest, it may prove the means of the entire destruction of the human race. It should bring us face to face with the fact that another war with such an instrument of destruction makes peace the only alternative, if we would wish to live on in this world—a world which is a wonderful one and, properly made use of, affords much of happiness, though sorrow, too, will always play its part.

The S. S. Hampden-Sydney Victory

THE naming of the Victory ship Hampden-Sydney, launched recently at Baltimore, will be gratifying to thousands of the sons and friends of the college.

It was altogether fitting that recognition should be given to this institution which has made a notable contribution to the winning of the war, according to its size and means. Through the Navy Unit it has trained many potential officers for our battleships, cruisers and destroyers.

Very appropriately the wife of President Gammon christened the ship and President Gammon, his daughter, Mrs. Grattan Lindsey, and a number of alumni were present.

It is not a ship of war, and neither is the college dedicated to training men for war, but its function has been to train men in the various paths of peace.

May the S. S. Hampden-Sydney Victory plow the ocean waves for many years to come on missions of peace, carrying cargoes of merchandise and not munitions of war. May her voyages be in the interest of and for the benefit of mankind, promoting understanding and good will among nations. May the emblem of peace float from her masthead.

Peace

AFTER nearly four years of war in which the United States was an active participant and nearly six years in which all of Europe was involved, the repercussions of which reached our own shores, suddenly comes an end of hostilities.

Six years is a long time, and during that period what was going on on the various battlefronts was the chief concern of most of us. We had been warned that the Japanese war would in all probability last for a year, or even two years, longer. Therefore, when the Nipponese unconditional surrender took place on the 14th of August, it came with such a suddenness that it was difficult for the mind to grasp.

It was like someone who has been racked by pain on a bed of sickness for a long period to have this pain suddenly leave him. The first reaction was one of unutterable relief, but the patient realized that a long road lay ahead before complete recovery. Such is the case ahead for the war-torn nations, victor and vanquished, who have now laid down their arms. To thinking and informed people, victory over Japan for a long time had been an assured fact. The question was when would the victory come. There were many who felt that after the fall of Germany, Japan, standing alone, could not hold out for any great period. The concentration of Naval and Air power on the Japanese islands with the destructive effects of raids from B-29's and from airplane carriers, supplemented by a sea blockade, spelled Japan's doom. It was the atomic bomb, however, which brought about so sudden and complete a surrender. It is somewhat remarkable that within the few days more than three months after the fall of Germany, the "Land of the Rising Sun" sank into abysmal defeat.

Democracy which had been so ruthlessly assailed had been subjected to such a test that many doubted whether it could prevail. Now it rises triumphant, and that system which for so long had been accepted as the best form of government has stood this final and most terrific of all tests.

Rejoicing as the democratic nations of the world have a right to do, we should not be unmindful that the victory was won with untold bloodshed, and that many of the finest and best of our youth had to give their lives that democracy could be preserved, and in our rejoicing we must never cease to recall the deeds of these men, and enshrine them in our hearts and memories as long as life shall last.

Hampden-Sydney Men in the Armed Forces

THERE appears in this issue a recapitulation of Hampden-Sydney men serving in the Army, Navy and Marines, the Merchant Marine and the Red Cross. It will be seen from this that Hampden-Sydney has furnished 728 men to the Army, 914 to the Navy, 41 to the Marines, 4 to the Merchant Marine and 4 to the Red Cross. The fact that the number of men in the Navy exceeds the men in the Army is due to the V-12 unit which was placed at Hampden-Sydney July 1, 1943. Four hundred and seventy-seven in the Navy are V-12 men whose sojourn at College was for a comparatively brief period. Of these 477, however, about 150 were former students. Bearing this in mind and taking the 150 from the 477 will show that there are approximately 600 in the Navy exclusive of the V-12. When it is recalled that the average annual attendance from 1933 through 1943 was about 350, it will be seen that Hampden-Sydney's contribution to the furtherance of the war effort is far in excess of what might have been expected from the limited number of students—the Freshman Class each year only averaging about 85 men.

Moreover the record is not complete. Later it is our hope to present a final and complete record, showing the number of officers in the Army, Navy and Marines, with their respective ranks. When this is done, it will be shown that a large percentage of these men were officers.

These men have served on the battlefronts in Africa, Italy, France, Germany and Russia; on the Atlantic, the North Sea and the wide expanse of the Pacific. They have suffered their portion of casualties, and not a few have made the supreme sacrifice. Throughout, they have carried forward the College's tradition of courage, fidelity and daring. We are looking forward to a fitting memorial in tribute to those who have given their lives, as well as to those who stood ready to do so.

To the loved ones of those who will never return, Hampden-Sydney extends its heartfelt sympathy, and assures them that the college, too, unites with them in their bereavement and sorrow. It is the earnest hope of all those associated with the College that a real peace may follow this most colossal of all wars, and that the world may go forward to a better day, and that the sacrifice, the bloodshed, the suffering and the agony will not have been in vain.

The editors are grateful to the U. S. Army Signal Corps for the above photograph. It shows Lieutenant Colonel Edwin R. Carter, Jr., Class of 1929, receiving the Croix de Guerre with the Gold Star from French General Rodes. The place is the courtyard of Hotel des Invalides, Paris, France. With the end of the war the Colonel's many friends hope that he may soon be allowed to return to St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Richmond, Va., where he was serving as rector at the time of his enlistment in the Army

DEAR ALUMNUS:

This copy of the RECORD will seem decidedly soon after just receiving the July number. There are two reasons: The shortage of manpower in Roanoke and the necessity of getting the Alumni Fund Record out on time. Mr. Hurt, our good alumnus and publisher, made a special effort to this end. So vital has the Alumni Fund become in the life of the College that no effort must be spared to give it full sway in the program.

EDGAR G. GAMMON

The launching of the S. S. Hampden-Sydney was a perfect occasion, save for the desperate illness of the son of Dr. F. S. Johns, the President of our Board. He was stricken with spinal meningitis that morning. Fortunately, he was an intern at Johns Hopkins; so he received immediately the best attention. I am grateful to say he came through and is now completely recovered.

By the way, we have three of our graduates at Hopkins in the Medical Department, and all three were chosen as interns. They are Tommy Johns, Jim Cousar and Joe Coxe—a source of pride to us all.

There is no question now about the discontinuance of the V-12 on November 1. Institutions without Army or Navy Units have had 15 per cent of their normal enrollment. On the bases of such schools as Amherst and Williams, this means that we can hardly expect more than some 50 students. However, every effort is being made to obtain as high an enrollment as possible. New men will be received on September 3d and November 1st. It will greatly help if in your community you will aid us with the names and personal visits to prospects.

We are looking for Coach Summers almost any day. He served with the Red Cross in the Okinawa Campaign. While no intercollegiate football will be possible, he will be needed in many other ways.

We are planning and hoping for the authorization of the Synod of Virginia for a campaign in behalf of Hampden-Sydney. Now is indeed the time for us and a most strenuous effort should be made to raise at least $750,000.

It is certainly good to have Warren White leading us again. I wish every Alumnus knew him. He is "a Hampden-Sydney man" at his best. No Alumnus could be more interested in his College than he. Not only willingly but also gladly he gives his services with generosity and enthusiasm.

The months after November 1st through May will be a little stiff. However, I am much too grateful for our blessings to worry about a temporary period of limited enrollment.

Whatever may be decided about a large campaign, nothing must disturb our Fund. That is a permanent asset of too much value. Since we have had it, no other calls have gone out. None ever will except, as was said at the time, in case of some unusual effort.

With kind personal regards,

Sincerely yours,
EDGAR G. GAMMON, President

Launching of the S. S. Hampden-Sydney Victory

WITH "I christen thee Hampden-Sydney Victory, and may God take thee safely on thy way," Mrs. Edgar G. Gammon, of Hampden-Sydney, sent the 10,700-ton combination troop and cargo ship down the ways at the Bethlehem-Fairfield Shipyard, Baltimore, Md. The day, Saturday, July 14, 1945.

Launching ceremonies began with a luncheon at the Southern Hotel in Baltimore attended by College officials and Alumni. Toasts were made to the ship's sponsor, and President Edgar Gammon responded with a toast to the ship.

At 3 o'clock Mrs. Edgar G. Gammon officially christened the ship, Hampden-Sydney Victory, and Dr. Gammon pushed the button releasing the ship and it started down the ways amidst the cheers of the sponsors and workmen.

The Hampden-Sydney Victory was built in 39 working days and is the 77th Victory ship to be launched by the company. It is the 26th ship and last to be named for an American college. This newest Victory ship will be operated by the A. H. Bull Company, of Baltimore, and will be used to transport supplies to Europe and return soldiers from the European Theater.

Writing from the Naval Academy at Annapolis where he is teaching, Lieutenant Philip H. Ropp, '30, has sent in a lively account of the launching. Our good friend wrote this at the request of the editors and they are greatly pleased to share with other Alumni and friends Lieutenant Ropp's version of this interesting and important event:

Annapolis, Maryland
July 21, 1945

It is a matter of regret to me that the whole Alumni body could not be present at the launching of the S. S. Hampden-Sydney. There isn't an alumnus whose heart wouldn't have pounded a bit faster when he saw the gray hull of that ship with the name of the college painted high on the bow.

The ceremony was quite an occasion, being not only a launching of a ship, impressive under any circumstances, but also a minor reunion.

Jack Lyle and I, not wanting to miss a trick, arrived at the shipyard an hour before time and had to wait at the office until it was convenient to be ushered to where the ship was. Most all the Alumni who attended had the same thought, for they began to pour in almost immediately and the office before long began to look like McIlwaine Hall on home-coming day. Of all my contemporaries in college the only one present was Ritz, '32, though there were some of Jack Lyle's friends there whom I did not know. He can doubtless identify them for you. However, the greater part of those attending were Alumni of the last few years. I hate to mention names lest I overlook some, but among them were Syd Venable, Douglas Venable, Joe Coxe, Jim Cousar, Clemmer Peck, Bill Bayes, Doval Ogden, Randolph

Sherman, Kirk Hammond, Bob Engle, Bob Wilson, Bob Johnson and Bill Adams. I also saw Bruce Franz's father at a distance but didn't get a chance to speak to him. While we were waiting, Lieutenant and Mrs. Howe drove up with Ruth Howe, Dorothy Overcash, Margaret Pogue Massey, and Tulane Atkinson, Jr. So you can see with all these people gathering the hour passed quickly and pleasantly.

At about three-fifteen a Spar took charge of us and took us to where the ship was. As I said, she was impressive looking (the ship, I mean; the Spar wasn't bad looking either), painted gray, and in the ways looking as large as the Queen Mary. It was Poguey Massey, I think, who called attention to the fact that up to the Plimsoll mark, where the gray of the hull began, the paint could almost be called garnet, so besides being decorated with flags for the occasion, the ship fortuitously was painted garnet and gray.

We had hardly settled ourselves and had our fill of gaping when Dr. and Mrs. Gammon, Dr. and Mrs. Wilson, Elizabeth Gammon Lindsey and Patsy Johns drove up with the shipyard officials and the launching ceremonies began. Music came over a loudspeaker and a voice told of the ship and gave a sketch of the college in whose honor it was named. Whistles blew over the yard to announce a launching, and when the moment came for the ship to go down the ways everything became quiet. Another whistle blew which the loudspeaker informed us meant that the river was clear and the ship was ready to go. With that there came a count of five and at the last count Mrs. Gammon swung the champagne across the bow. It was a bull's-eye shot with great force. The bottle broke with a gratifying crash while at once the ship began to slide away into the water. Everything had been quiet up to then, but an immediate cheer arose and everyone excitedly crowded around Mrs. Gammon to congratulate her.

When the Hampden-Sydney was afloat she was met by tugs. In the water the ship was a beautiful sight and her name could still be seen in the distance as the tugs drew her out of sight.

Lieutenant Leigh Taylor, '41 Gives Valued Report

San Francisco, Cal.
25 July, 1945

MR. GEORGE L. WALKER,
Hampden-Sydney College,
Hampden-Sydney, Va.

DEAR MR. WALKER:

The April issue of THE RECORD has just been received. It was read with great interest and appreciation of the effort which went and always goes into the publication of this magazine. It always carries with it the atmosphere and feeling which I, as a student, caught from the college. The reading of it is a bright spot, and brings back many memories of one of the happiest parts of my life.

Wherever one goes in this vast ocean out here, he is sure to find someone he has known in the past. It has been my good fortune to meet several Hampden-Sydney boys in the Pacific, and I would like to pass on the information gleaned from them.

Jimmy Wolcott, '42, now a Lieutenant (jg), is a Communication Officer aboard a PC, and has seen a good deal of service in the Pacific. Pat Booth, '42, Ensign, is stationed at the Naval Ammunition Depot, Pearl Harbor, and seems to be very much pleased with his assignment. Ensign Roy Cabell, '43, is also out here, but I cannot give his exact location now. I did have the good fortune to see all three of the above men together some time ago; we had quite a session on college days and college friends. Also recently, it was my pleasure to have a nice long talk with Lieutenant H. Tyler Taylor, Jr., '41, who had just arrived in the Pacific. He is now Executive Officer aboard a fleet minesweeper. He will see plenty of action out here, and since he and I are in the same squadron, we will probably see a lot of each other. Lieutenant William G. Traylor, Jr., '41, is Engineering Officer aboard a tanker and is completing his third year in the Pacific. Bill hasn't changed a bit since his college days, and is still the happy, pleasant, smiling man we knew then. Eddie Wolcott, '43, Lieutenant (jg), was in the Pacific until recently on a submarine chaser. I believe he is back in the States now. I also heard that Alan White is roaming around the Pacific on a battleship, in charge of one of its main battery turrets. No doubt he has made a lot of "splashes."

Before leaving the States, I saw Emmett Hoy, '41, several times, and he is doing a great job at Christ and St. Luke's Church, Norfolk. Bill Bullock, '41, is in the Navy, and is a weather expert. When last heard of he was stationed somewhere in the Middle West. Captain Tom Curry, '41, on last report, was a flight instructor at an A. A. F. Field in Alabama.

As for myself, I am at present Executive Officer on a fleet minesweeper, and have been in the Pacific only a few months. I have seen enough of what it is like to realize that we have a tough road ahead. It will take continued effort and contribution on the part of every citizen back home to win this part of the war quickly. After leaving Hampden-Sydney College, I worked for the summer as an office boy for Texaco; went to Midshipman's School in September, '41, and received my commission in January, '42; married Miss Norma Pamplin the same month; was at Mine Warfare School till June, then reported to the U. S. S. Threat, a fleet minesweeper, building in Savannah, Ga.; became the proud father of a baby girl, Miss Mary Leigh Taylor, in December, '42; started my sea life in March, '43; did escort work and went through the Normandy Campaign; back to the States in August, '44, for refresher training and reassignment. My present address is U. S. S. Staff (AM-114), c/o Fleet Post Office, San Francisco, Cal.

Please remember me to all my friends of "The Hill," especially Miss Lacy. I love so much the old college and the people who make it what it is that it is almost impossible to make any differentiation among personalities.

With warmest personal regards for you and Mrs. Walker,

Sincerely yours,
LIEUTENANT LEIGH TAYLOR, '41

P. S. Please continue sending THE RECORD to my home address as my wife enjoys reading it before forwarding it to me.

(NOTE: The Editors are always gratified to receive a letter of this kind. All of it is interesting and particularly helpful is the latter part in which Lieutenant Taylor gives the data that the present compilers and the future historian of the College must have. The service alumnus who will send facts about HIMSELF [dates, places, events, etc., etc.] is dear to the heart of the Editors.)

The Fund Chairman and the Association President Speak

WILLIAM R. GARDNER
President, General Alumni Association

Until the inauguration of the Alumni Fund, there was at Hampden-Sydney no organized effort to obtain financial support from the alumni. This was a condition existing in few colleges—particularly those being efficiently operated and maintaining high standards. How Hampden-Sydney has accomplished so much and maintained such an excellent rating with so little, has always been a mystery to those who have known anything about the College.

Those of us who were so fortunate as to attend Hampden-Sydney and who love the College, expect progress and the maintenance of high standards. We wish a college to which to send our sons and the sons of our friends and relatives. The Alumni Fund affords a means of supporting, in a material way, the splendid efforts of those entrusted with carrying Hampden-Sydney forward into even greater fields of service.

There is a need for the small liberal arts college and there is no better one than ours. His Excellency, Colgate W. Darden, Jr., Governor of Virginia and friend of Hampden-Sydney College, in referring to the State of Virginia's expansive program of vocational education, declared emphatically that "no amount of mechanical development or specialized training can compensate for the failure of a people to provide that training which addresses itself to the development of the capacity to think—to the creation of a critical and discriminating mind capable of appraising accurately and dispassionately the perplexing problems which are incident to modern civilization."

Alumni of Hampden-Sydney are convinced of the worthiness of Hampden-Sydney's past and glory in it. Our history and tradition afford a solid foundation for a brilliant future. Let us help in the present by contributing liberally to the 1945 Alumni Fund.

J. WARREN WHITE
Chairman, Hampden-Sydney Alumni Fund

The Hampden-Sydney Alumni Fund is beginning its sixth year. The Fund has now developed into an important work of the College.

In the period of low enrollment just ahead, the Alumni will never have a greater chance to be of vital help to their Alma Mater than by contributing to the Fund this year. Facing the difficulties which all colleges are having at this time, we are asking your full support.

We wish every alumnus to become a contributor, feel that he has an interest in the College, and share in its work.

An effort is being made to increase the number of contributors from approximately eleven hundred to fifteen hundred. This can only be accomplished by cooperating with your Class Manager.

Rev. William Robert Moody An Episcopal Bishop

Hampden-Sydney College counts among its alumni a number of clergymen of the Episcopal Church. Heretofore, however, there have been only three Bishops among these: The Right Reverend Thomas Atkinson, 1825, Bishop of North Carolina, an account of whose activities was written for THE RECORD (Vol. 3, No. 1) by his grandson, the late Rev. Thomas Atkinson of Baltimore, Md.; The Right Reverend Charles Clifton Penick, 1863, native of Charlotte County, Va., C. S. A., Missionary Bishop of Cape Palmas—for whom see The Bulletin of Hampden-Sydney College of October, 1914, p. 15; the Right Reverend Robert A. Gibson, 1867, C. S. A., Bishop of Virginia, of whom a sketch was written for THE RECORD (Vol. 2, No. 4) by his nephew, Rev. Churchill Gibson Chamberlayne, of Richmond, Va.

Now the College claims another honored son who will be consecrated Bishop on October 24, 1945. This is Rev. William Robert Moody, D. D., of the Class of 1922, recently elected Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Lexington which includes the eastern portion of Kentucky. This Bishop-to-be was born in Lowndes County, Mississippi, near Columbus, on January 12, 1900, son of Mr. William R. Moody and Mrs. Daisy Butler Moody. Hampden-Sydney remembers this gentleman as a diligent and successful student, an efficient assistant in the Library, and a member of the Church Militant enrolled in the S. A. T. C. here, preparing to fight in World War I, but never called to active service. After three years at college, the young man taught for two years in the Greenbrier Military Academy, doing summer work at Columbia University, N. Y., thus securing credit for the Bachelor of Arts degree from Hampden-Sydney. In 1923, he entered the Virginia Theological Seminary at Alexandria and received his B. D. degree in 1926. Some years later Mr. Moody took graduate work at George Washington University and did special research in the Library of Congress. Ordained in 1927, the young priest served for a time St. Andrew's Church in Lawrenceville, Va.; then went to Silver Spring, Md., where he was rector until 1932. Meantime, in 1928, he married Miss Cordie Lee Winston Moncure, of Bowling Green, Va. There are two daughters, the elder fourteen years of age (in 1945), named for her mother, the younger, Anne Fauntleroy Moody, aged four.

In 1932, Mr. Moody accepted a call to be rector of St. Marks Church in Washington, D. C. In the Diocese of Washington, he was for eight years chairman of the Department of Religious Education, and founded the Washington School of Religion and the Washington Summer Conference of Church Workers. He was also for several years a member of the Executive Council of the Diocese, a member of the Standing Committee and Secretary of it.

In 1939 our esteemed friend became rector of Christ Church in Baltimore. Since being there he has been a member of the Board of Trustees of the Cathedral of the Incarnation and of the Executive Council of the Diocese. He is a Mason; a founder of two Lions Clubs; a member of the Society of Colonial Wars, of the University Club in Maryland, and of the Maryland Historical Society.

Dr. Moody has been a prolific writer of religious books. Among these a few are: "The Beginnings of the Christian Church," "God and His Revelation," "Heroes of the Faith," "Pioneers for God," "The Prayer Book and Its Use," "The Old Testament Prophets," "The Christian Religion in the Modern World," "The Moral Law in the Modern World," "Vital Elements in the Gospel," "Understanding the Book of Revelation." These and others of the same type, and numerous magazine articles compose a bulky and scholarly output.

Dr. Moody's Alma Mater has watched his useful work and steady development with pride and pleasure; and in 1943 conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Divinity, as a token of its appreciation of his studious life and scholarly attainments. He is an evangelical preacher, a learned theologian, a consecrated Christian. That Heaven's blessing may attend him as he enters upon his new and wider field of usefulness is the wish and hope of his friends at Hampden-Sydney.

Wyndham B. Blanton, Jr., '41, Relates Some of the Trials of a Supply Officer

A good friend has shared with THE RECORD some "quotes" from a most interesting letter from Wyndham B. Blanton, Jr., '41, Supply Officer of the Destroyer C. K. Bronson. Ensign Blanton applied for the line, but his previous experience in business destined him for another post. Even so he stood watch with the others and was given duty in C. I. C. His vessel took part in the invasion of Iwo Jima, the Philippines, and Okinawa. These interesting quotations which might be entitled "Trials of a Supply Officer," are given below:

"Never knew there was so much work to be done on one of these little runabouts. You know, I am sure, what it is to drop into a grocery store and purchase $10 worth of produce. Well, just imagine what it's like to pick up about $11,000 worth of produce and not have them hand you every rotten orange and apple in the place. Sure, I got stung—but plenty on several items. Of course, there's no question on price—that's set—so I don't have to haggle. The worst of it all is scooting about the harbor in a little 26-foot boat which leaves you about as dry as a fish, looking for odds and ends for the people who have the power to want and have their wants answered without question. I spent one solid day and covered nine different ships before I found a bottom for the Commodore's coffeemaker."

"I've spent my entire time in port talking to people, arguing, begging them, coaxing, cajoling, doing everything all the way to bribing in one instance, in an effort to get enough and the necessary kinds of foodstuffs to keep this can going for the required length of time."

"Since I last wrote you we had quite a mess develop when a wave came in over our ship during a heavy sea and smashed up one side of our ship. One man was killed and another lost his thumb. Both were in my division (a cook and a cook's striker). Another man was saved only by the doctor's skill. He performed alone in a ship rolling up to 35°, with only canned ether and no truly experienced help (so inexperienced that I was almost put to work helping in the actual operation), an operation which I should think would require great skill under the best of conditions."

An Expression of Heartfelt Loyalty

Monday night
30 July, 1945

DEAR MR. WALKER:

My purpose is three-fold in this letter: First, to thank you for seeing to it that I've gotten my copy of the RECORD as quickly as possible; second, to forward to you this picture of Dave Greenlee and myself, and thirdly, to thank you for sending Craighill Burks my full address.

Now, then, about the RECORD. I can truthfully say that I read that publication with more interest and concentration than any other paper, magazine, or what have you, that comes to my hand. I can never seem to read its pages quickly enough and always when I come to the end of it I find that I'm disappointed that the end has been reached, for I want to read on and on and on about the people that I've known in the past, about what is happening there at Hampden-Sydney and what is planned there for its future. While I'm, by no means, to be classed among her more illustrious graduates, I feel sure that I am well up in the ranks of those who think so highly of the school—what it means to us and what it means to the young men of the future—that a great lump rises up in my throat at the very thought of anything connected with the place. Yes, to be perfectly frank about the matter, I'm homesick as can be for the place and you can be sure that I shall make it a point to visit there at my earliest possible opportunity once I return to the States.

The enclosed picture is of interest to Dave and me for the simple reason that for each of us it is the first time we have contacted a former Hampden-Sydney classmate ('38) since being in service. I've been in the Army now since April of 1941, and he came in about July of 1943, I believe. Honestly, I had no idea that the world was such a large place that two Hampden-Sydney Alumni could go that long without running into someone from there. Dave came to this outfit on TDY ("temporary duty" to you civilians) not so long ago and as luck would have it he recognized me when he walked into the movie that night. Needless to say we didn't see the movie that night but instead retired to my basha for a long session concerning things of the past. Just last week he and his organization left this vicinity for parts unannounced, but we are very much of the opinion that they are headed for a large group of islands to the south and east of Japan. Bill Junkin was said to have been a Jap prisoner on that same island.

Now, then, in regard to Craig Burks. Last Wednesday I was delighted to receive his phone call making himself known to me as a result of having received from you my full address. Let me urge you to use the complete address of every service man you mention in the RECORD whenever at all possible for in that way we will all be able to contact each other more easily. I was delighted to find that Craig was so close to me (just twenty miles) so, of course, I made it a point to go visit him the very next day. We, too, had a very enjoyable get-together and quite naturally talked long and loud about very much the same things and places and happenings as did Dave and I during our time together.

In your letter to Craig, which he read in part to me, you told him that I was here in India but that I expected to be coming home in the very near future. How true, how true, but it would amaze you to know that the "very near future" to the Army can be time eternal or so it would seem when it comes to getting ready to send people home even though they have been here for over twenty-five months. I've been wanting, hoping, expecting and praying to get home for lo, these last several months, but so far I've not moved an inch in that direction nor does it seem that my 76 points toward a critical score will do me much good in that connection unless a miracle takes place and they drop the all-important score down to below my 76 points, and that seems almost too good to happen to me. My luck just doesn't seem to run that way these days. The rumors concerning our departure Stateside though are getting better every day, or at least we begin to believe more and more in them every day; so that keeps up the general morale and makes for plenty of conversation.

Sincerely,
P. D. JOHNSTON, JR.

The Excellence of The Farmville Herald Again Recognized

First place of Virginia weeklies of circulation in excess of 2,300 in excellence of general make-up was awarded the Farmville Herald by the Virginia Press Association Committee of Awards, for the year 1945. All the contest judges were from outside Virginia. This excellent paper is owned and edited by J. Barrye Wall of the Class of 1919, and every year the paper is awarded a prize for some sort of outstanding journalistic work. It deserves unstinted commendation.

Snapshot, taken shortly before he left for overseas, of Sergeant Peirce and his son, Chichester Barham Peirce

Chichester Tapscott Peirce, Jr., '33 Sergeant U. S. Army, World War II

Chichester Tapscott Peirce, Jr., Sergeant, U. S. Army, was born at "The Oaks," Lancaster County, Va., November 4, 1909, and was killed near Schmidt, Germany, on February 9, 1945.

He was the son of Dr. Chichester Tapscott and Elizabeth (Combs) Peirce and grandson of Lieutenant Robert Tunstall Peirce, C. S. A., and his wife, Mary Alice (Tapscott) Peirce, and the Reverend and Mrs. Laurence Rousseau Combs, of Lancaster County, Va.

He attended local schools, St. Christopher's School, Richmond, and Hampden-Sydney College where he was a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Before entering the service he served as deputy clerk of Lancaster County for a number of years.

On June the sixteenth, 1937, he married Miss Catherine R. Barham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dashland Daniel Barham, of Capron, Va., and on August the eighth, 1943, their son, Chichester Barham Peirce, was born.

He was inducted into the service May 19, 1943, and left for Camp Lee May 26, 1943. He received his basic training at Camp Wheeler, Ga., and from October, 1943, to May, 1944, he was stationed at Fort George G. Meade, Md., leaving there on June 20, 1944, for New York, his port of embarkation. He was later sent to England, France, Belgium and Germany.

For an account of his death quotations follow from letters sent by a member of his platoon and the regimental chaplain.

On January 16, 1945, he joined Co. C, 310th Infantry, 78th Division, 1st Army. Quotations from Chaplain Oscar W. Voelke's letter regarding Sergeant Peirce's service and death:

"His sad death occurred between 2:00 and 2:30 p. m. on 9 February, '45, in the vicinity of Schmidt, Germany. He had joined the regiment and division in January, '45. Until 29 January, '45, we had been deployed in holding the line running through Simmerath and Rollesbroich, Germany, approximately 15 to 20 miles east of Aachen, Germany. On January 29th the attack for the Schwammenauel Dam was launched by our unit and was still in progress at the time of his fatality. During the brief period of time that he was with us he served as a squad leader and in most commendable fashion. All of the men in his squad had only the highest praise for the leadership and courage which he manifested under fire."

Private Walter Sapp, a member of his company and platoon, wrote: "I am only to glad to give information concerning the death of Sergeant Peirce. We were making an attack for the high ground northwest of Schmidt on February 9th, when our company was subjected to heavy mortar and artillery fire. At that time Sergeant Peirce was acting as a platoon guide and doing a splendid job of controlling and directing his platoon.

"I thought I heard a mortar shell coming and I dove into an old shell hole; just at that moment we were caught in a barrage that hit right on top of us. I raised up quickly and saw Sergeant Peirce falling over backwards and upon investigation found he was killed instantly by mortar fragments. His body was intact and should have been recovered in a matter of hours as we were followed by a grave registration detail."

On February 24th, he was buried in Henri Chapelle Military Cemetery, Belgium.

He is survived by his wife and son, Chichester Barham Peirce; his parents, a sister, Mrs. Robert Page Henley, and nephew, Robert Page Henley, Jr., of Charleston, W. Va.

The History of Lynchburg

Messrs. Garrett and Massie of Richmond are preparing to publish The History of Lynchburg, by Mr. Herbert Bouldin Hawes of the Class of 1892. Mr. Hawes is a lawyer by profession and a trained law-writer, and thus is especially fitted to write authentic history. He has also in past years written a charming historical novel: "A Daughter of the Blood," dealing with the pre-colonial days of Virginia and North Carolina. We have not seen his treatment of the origin and development of "The Hill City," but we are sure that we can make no mistake by stating that the facts are well arranged, the dates all correct, and the style chaste and pleasing. In July, 1945, Raymond B. Hawes, a grandson of our Alumnus of fifty-seven years ago, entered Hampden-Sydney College as a member of the V-12 unit here. The descendants of alumni are students of the College.

Officers of the Student Body for 1945-46

Oliver C. Greenwood of Amelia, has been elected President of the student body; Harvey Jeffreys of Chase City will be vice president, and Charles Fitzpatrick of Richmond will be Secretary-Treasurer.

The Old Spirit

I am very happy to be asked again to serve as a class manager. The future of Hampden-Sydney is constantly in my mind. Financially, I cannot help as much as I should wish, but physically and spiritually I shall do all in my power to help the College.

GEORGE R. HOLDEN, '42

I hasten to accept your kind invitation to service as a class manager for the ensuing year. I consider it a privilege and honor to have this opportunity to assist in the promotion of our sixth Alumni Fund. Although a dozen years have elapsed since I have had close contact with the old College, I have followed with interest the various activities of "The Hill" and especially the splendid progress of the Alumni Fund. My interest in the College is not entirely philanthropic since I have a nine-year-old, named George III, who will be a member of the Class of 1957!

GEORGE W. BISHOP, JR., '35

I am always pleased to do anything I can to help the College in any way.

W. H. T. SQUIRES, '95

I greatly appreciate the opportunity of serving Hampden-Sydney through the Alumni Fund and will gladly act as a class manager.

E. T. WELLFORD, '91

I appreciate being considered as a possible class manager and I am accepting the nomination of the committee. Of course everybody is more or less swamped with work at the present time, but you may count on my doing what is required of me to the best of my ability.

G. M. COOTES, '26

I am sure that the loyal Alumni of Hampden-Sydney will stand by her in the year ahead and see her through. I believe most of them feel as I do that it is a privilege as well as a duty to do this. I enclose herewith my check.

R. C. EDMUNDS, '25

I owe so much to the Old College that I am ready to do anything I can to serve it.

JOHN R. ROSEBRO, '94

I am returning the card with the proper square checked the one that says I'll be more than glad to act as a class manager. Just tell me what to do and I'll give my best. I'm in Radar down here in the 'old home State' (Florida). Getting the RECORD is a real treat.

FRANCIS P. "MOON" BAILEY, '43

Yesterday I opened a communication addressed to Gordon and found that it was a nomination of the Alumni Fund Council to serve as a class manager for the Class of 1935. I know Gordon will appreciate the distinction suggested by this nomination and that he would be very happy to serve Hampden-Sydney in this or any other capacity were he available, but he is with the Army. At present (June 19) he is in northern Italy.

When our country entered the war, Gordon promptly resigned from the church on Prince Edward Island, Canada, where he was pastor, waived his ministerial exemption, and enlisted as a G. I. He was assigned to the 10th Mountain Division, the Ski Troops. After training in the high Rockies, the division was sent to Italy where it saw some pretty heavy fighting, particularly at Mount Belvedere and the Po crossing where the outfit was pretty badly cut up. Happily, Gordon came through unscathed and now seems to be having a lot of fun skiing and climbing in the Alps. He thinks (it is just a GI rumor I suppose) he will be flown back to this country, reoutfitted, and started off for Japan . . . While I must thus notify the Council of Gordon's non-availability, I am sure he will wish to contribute to the Fund, and I am enclosing a check to be entered in his name.

C. K. NICHOLS (Father of Gordon R., "Pete." '35)

Our Ship's Library

In recognition of the honor of having a ship of the Merchant Marine christened the S. S. Hampden-Sydney Victory, the College sent to its namesake a gift of books for the ship's library. The collection of 300 volumes, assembled from the shelves of the library and from gifts of the faculty and friends of the College, was selected for informational as well as recreational reading. It embraced, not only new and classic fiction and pocket mystery stories, but books in the fields of photography, navigation and seamanship, religion, science, literature, biography, history and philosophy including such standard reference works as Bartlett's Familiar Quotations, Webster's Dictionary, the World Almanac, Hoyle's Games, Emily Post's Etiquette and the one-volume Columbia Encyclopedia. Each volume was prepared for circulation, complete with the Library's book-plate and a gift plate if the volume was donated by an individual, with the intention of considering the collection an extension of the College Library. This plan was not devised with any thought of having the books returned or accounted for, but rather with the idea of fostering the connection between the ship and the College by adding new books to the ship's library from time to time.

Chaplain Paul G. Linaweaver, '25

The Newport (R. I.) Navalog of July 21, 1945, announced that Chaplain Paul Glenwood Linaweaver, '25, was promoted to the rank of Captain, U. S. N., in July, 1945. He entered service at Newport, R. I., in January, 1933, having previously been Vicar of St. Albans Parish, Washington, D. C. He was for 3 years attached to the U. S. S. Wyoming; has been stationed at the Charleston Navy Yard and at Naval Air Station, Alameda, Cal., was 28 months at Guam; was Senior Chaplain on the Aleutians—a total of 82 months aboard ship and at Naval Stations. Last January (1945) he reported to the Newport Naval Training Station where Mrs. Linaweaver and their 16 year old son, Paul G. Jr., are with the Captain.

Roster of Hampden-Sydney Alumni World War II

WE publish below the roster of our alumni who have participated in World War II. Undoubtedly there are errors of omission and commission in the list. Names are unwittingly omitted that should appear; some men may be placed in a branch of the service in which they did not serve; and proper ranking may not have, in all cases, been given. The compiler apologizes for all mistakes and begs that the "offended" notify the Alumni Office promptly. Corrections will be made in the files of the office and published in a subsequent copy of the RECORD. Sixteen hundred and ninety-one (1,691) names are listed. This breaks down into: Army, 728; Navy, 914; Marine Corps, 41; Merchant Marine, 4; Red Cross, 4. Those in the Navy include members of the V-12 who have attended here since July, 1943. Many Hampden-Sydney students were in the first contingent of the Navy trainees. Undoubtedly a great many of all the V-12-ers have, since leaving the College, received commissions. Indicated are those from whom the Alumni Office has heard. It will be most gratifying to hear from all others who have received their commissions from midshipman stations.

We repeat that this does not claim to be a complete tabulation. We trust that it will be provocative; that all concerned will take a minute to make corrections and that our men will begin NOW to mail in their COMPLETE MILITARY RECORDS.

The Happy Hagans

Mr. John B. Henneman, thoughtful as ever, has sent to Secretary Walker a long clipping from the Chattanooga News-Free Press of June 9th. This clipping carries a picture of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Mosby Hagan, Jr., he of the Class of 1923, and their son B. M. Hagan III, Lieutenant, U. S. A. Air Force. The Lieutenant is home again after nearly two years' service overseas, a year of which was spent in German prison camps, each one of which was worse than the one before. Lieutenant Hagan went overseas in October, 1943, and flew for eight months as pilot of both Thunderbolt and Mustang fighter planes. He has a record of having shot down two ME-109's, destroyed one German training plane on the ground, damaged two locomotives. He was the head flight leader for his squadron; and was shot down on a strafing mission near Chartres, France. The young man is shown in the picture displaying to his parents ribbons for the Distinguished Flying Cross with Oak Leaf Cluster, Air Medal with five clusters and the European Theater ribbon with two bronze stars. He was set free at Moosburg, and the family group is happy.

Herman E. Smith at Chapel Hill As Athletic Director

A press notice from Chapel Hill, N. C., of July 21, 1945, reported that Lieutenant Commander, U. S. N., Herman E. Smith, had returned to the Navy Preflight there to be Athletic Director. After leaving Chapel Hill in 1942, he became Athletic Director at the Naval Air Station, Miami, Fla., until February, 1944, and then was staff military and physical training officer with Fleet Air Wing 3. From that time until his present assignment he was training officer on the staff of Rear Admiral F. B. Stump with headquarters in Chicago. Before entering the Navy, Lieutenant Commander Smith was Coach at the Citadel from 1935 to 1937 and at Hampden-Sydney from 1938 to 1942. A Silver Star was awarded this "Culpeper Flyer" for gallantry in action in leading a squadron of P-47's through to their objective, though his own plane had been seriously damaged by anti-aircraft fire. A third Oak Leaf Cluster to the Distinguished Flying Cross was awarded for extraordinary achievement in the Po Valley campaign; a Bronze Star Medal was awarded "for meritorious achievement in direct support of combat operations." The paper further states: "Altogether he has won the Silver Star, the Distinguished Flying Cross four times, the Soldier's Medal, the Bronze Star, the Air Medal 14 times, and the British Distinguished Flying Cross twice—a total of 23 decorations." He was appointed an Air Cadet in December, 1941, received his wings in August, 1942. Thus his career has been truly a brilliant one for an active service of three years.

It further reported that Major Allen Howard Bouldin, '37, was cited "for heroic action while serving with Engineers in France, subjected to a heavy mortar barrage while reconnoitering a causeway through an enemy minefield to obtain information concerning enemy positions, thus expediting the movement of a large body of troops." These officers are sons of Rev. James Wood Bouldin, of the Class of 1898.

JENNINGS. Mrs. George B. Jennings passed away at Nimrod Hall, Bath County, Va., on July 21, 1945. Before her marriage she was Miss Eva Lawson, of Danville. She is survived by her husband, Mr. George Booker Jennings, Sr.; by her son, Lieutenant George B. Jennings, Jr., U. S. N. R., of the Class of 1934, of Oakland, Cal.; and by two daughters—Mrs. Henry H. McVey and Mrs. Marion N. Fitzgerald, whose husbands are among our most valued alumni. To these bereaved friends the staff of THE RECORD extends sincere sympathy.

BAGGETT. Ensign Edwin DuBose Baggett, '45, U. S. N. R. Air Corps, was the son of Rev. and Mrs. John F. Baggett, for many years residents of Nashville, Tenn., but now living in Lexington, Ky., where Mr. Baggett is pastor of the First Methodist Church. Edwin was born at Woodbine, Nashville, Tenn., February 6, 1924; he graduated from the Clarksville High School, and for two years was a student at Hampden-Sydney College. He entered the Navy in July, 1943; graduated after training in Naval Air Bases and was commissioned ensign and Naval aviator. As stated by a release from Corpus Christi, Texas: "Each Naval aviator is an expert flyer, navigator, aerologist, gunner, and radio operator, and whether in the Marine Corps or in the Navy Naval Aviators wear the wings of Gold." The young Ensign had been recently stationed at Corpus Christi Air Base where he was in training as a night flyer pilot. On a routine flight, June 19, 1945, his plane crashed on a mountain peak near Monterey, Mexico, and burned.

The Ensign's remains were sent to Nashville under Naval Escort; and burial services were held in the Woodlawn Cemetery. Ensign Baggett is survived by his parents, two sisters, and three brothers.

ARBUCKLE. Howard Bell Arbuckle died at Morganton, N. C., on July 20, 1945. Son of Mr. John Davis Arbuckle and Mrs. Elizabeth Van Lear Arbuckle, he was born near Lewisburg, W. Va., on October 5, 1870, the prominent family of Greenbrier County, W. Va. By his native ability, mental vigor, tireless industry and moral force he faithfully maintained the high reputation of that family. He was prepared for Hampden-Sydney College at the Prince Edward Academy at Worsham, Va., of which the Rev. Thomas Wharey D. D. was then principal. He entered College in 1885; graduated in 1889 as Bachelor of Arts; was tutor in the College for the Session 1889-1890, at the same time securing the Master's Degree. Afterwards he studied at Johns Hopkins University and was made a Doctor of Philosophy in 1898, majoring in Chemistry, a department headed by the scholarly Dr. Remsen aided by nationally known assistants. Thus amply prepared, he was professor of Chemistry in Agnes Scott College at Decatur, Ga.; and in 1913 was called to be head of the Department of Chemistry in Davidson College where he was professor until 1937 when he retired and was made Professor Emeritus.

For 21 years Dr. Arbuckle was President of the Pi Kappa Alpha Social Fraternity, and to him is due much of the reputation which that organization has maintained as a group of studious gentlemen.

Serious ill-health came upon him prematurely and made retirement necessary; but not before he had received deserved recognition. He was twice on the Council of the American Chemical Society; he had been President of the North Carolina Academy of Science and of the North Carolina Section of the American Chemical Society. As a scholar, Dr. Arbuckle was respected and admired by his compeers; as a teacher he took high rank; as a ruling elder he served his church faithfully and well; as a man he stood four-square.

He married Miss Ida Cliff Meginis, who died in 1944. Two children survive: Lieutenant Colonel Howard B. Arbuckle, Jr., U. S. A., and Mrs. Donald Pfohl of Davidson. The good man was laid to rest in the College Cemetery at Davidson, N. C.

MASON. Mr. Crowder Walker Mason of the Class of 1897, was born in Halifax County, Va., on January 7, 1875. His parents were the late Charles Booker and Martha Crowder Mason. He did graduate study at Columbia University and spent the remainder of his useful life in educational work. Before coming to Norfolk, Va., in 1904, he had been Principal of the Roxboro Institute, N. C.; Assistant Principal of Margaret Academy at Onancock, Va., and Principal of the Smithfield (Va.) Institute. From that date Mr. Mason was connected with the Norfolk School system: Principal of the Samuel Boush School to 1911; Principal of the John Marshall School to 1918: Supervisor of Instruction in the City Schools to 1921; Assistant and Acting Superintendent of the school until 1923, when he was made Superintendent and continued to hold that position until ill health forced him to retire on February 26, 1943.

Mrs. Mason died some years ago; and, since leaving Norfolk, Mr. Mason had been living with his son, Joseph C. Mason, in Winston-Salem, N. C., where the end came on June 30, 1945. Besides this son, two other sons are Dr. Francis Claiborne Mason of Gettysburg College, Pa., and Giles Underhill Mason of Houston, Texas. A daughter, Mrs. Konradd Knake resides in Lynchburg, Va.

BELL. Lieutenant William H. Bell, U. S. A. A. Corps, was killed on July 23, 1945, while engaged in a ferrying mission in Scotland. He was son of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Bell, Sr., of Winchester. He had seen much active service in the Mediterranean and European areas of operations. The Lieutenant was a younger brother of Stewart Bell, Jr., of the Class of 1931; and he visited Hampden-Sydney several times while his brother was here, as did also his parents whom we number among our good friends and for whom we express sincere sympathy.

SAUNDERS. Colonel Peter Saunders, '13, was born in Rocky Mount, Va., in 1890; after taking his college course at Hampden-Sydney, he received the degree of LL. B. at Washington and Lee University and practiced his profession in Franklin County, Va., 1914-1922. Colonel Saunders spent most of his later life in Richmond, Va., as Secretary to five Governors of this State and as Secretary of the Commonwealth. From 1938, to 1942, he was Chairman of the Board of Motion Picture Censors. He had been Chairman of the Democratic Committee of Franklin County since 1918.

Suffering from a heart ailment for many months, Colonel Saunders kept steadily at work in the office of Governor Darden and was on duty there as late as 6 p. m. on the evening of his death which occurred between 8 and 10 p. m., on July 23, 1945. The State Capitol flag was at half mast on July 24th out of respect to the memory of this son of Virginia who had served the State long and faithfully, and who, because of his loyalty and fidelity—had made many friends.

ADAMS. The Richmond News-Leader of July 18, 1945, reported the death of Anthony Crease Adams, '12, which occurred July 17th, after an illness of several weeks. He was a son of the late William Harrison Adams and Mrs. Mary DeWitt Adams, and was born in Orange, N. J., February 18, 1892. For 23 years he had been connected with the Morris Plan Bank of Richmond, Va., as assistant cashier, cashier, and vice president and cashier, and was also a director of the bank. For the War I, he enlisted June 21, 1916, was Sergeant, Major in the 29th Division, Second Lieutenant 335th Service Battalion; served at Camp Parker, at Camp McClellan, and one year in France. His wife before her marriage, Miss Elsie Willson Harrison, who survives with a daughter, Miss Catherine Willson Adams, and a son, Lieutenant Anthony C. Adams, Jr., U.S.A.A.F. Mr. Adams was a member of Grace and Holy Trinity Episcopal Church in Richmond. Interment was in Hollywood Cemetery.

MARTIN. Dr. William Read Martin was the son of the late John and Mrs. Sarah Read Martin, grandson of Dr. Alexander Martin, long pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Danville, Va. He was first cousin of many of the Martin name who were Alumni of Hampden-Sydney College of whom the Hon. William Watkins Martin, '09, of Richmond is now the sole survivor.

Dr. Martin was born at "Greenfield," the home of his grandfather, Mr. William Read, in Charlotte County, Va. He had practiced medicine for thirty years in his native county, loved by many, respected by all. His health had not been good for some years; but to the end he was health officer of the county. He died at the University Hospital in Charlottesville, Va., on June 24, 1945, aged 62. He graduated at Hampden-Sydney College in 1902, and took his medical course at the University College of Medicine in Richmond. Dr. Martin is survived by his wife, Mrs. Nina Blair Constable Martin, and by a daughter, Sarah Read, now wife of Lieutenant W. S. Drewry, Jr., of the Class of 1935. Charlotte County and many friends elsewhere will miss this good and useful man.

COBB. John Wiltshire Cobb, '32, died at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Thomas Whitehead, in Amherst, Va., on July 9, 1945. He was born in Farmville, Va., 36 years ago, son of Mrs. Howell K. Cobb and the late Mr. Cobb. After leaving college, he was for a time in the automobile business, and he was a civil engineer in Cuba for several years engaged in construction work. In 1930, he married Miss Kate Carter Whitehead, who with a daughter survives him. Burial services were conducted at Amherst.

SHANKS. The secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of Los Vegas, Nev., has been kind enough to report to Secretary Walker that Lewis Niles Shanks, of the Class of 1877, died April 16, 1945. Former students, old enough to remember those far-distant years, will recall that the letter "N" of Mr. Shanks' middle name was thought to stand for Napoleon, and that the boy's lively disposition and active mind caused him to be regarded by the faculty as a sort of stormy petrel. He has not been heard from here at Hampden-Sydney for years, and we have no details in regard to his death.

STOKES. Edward Garland Stokes, Jr., son of Edward G. Stokes, Class of 1904, and Mrs. Sallie Jackson Stokes, was drowned on June 14, 1945; funeral services were held on the 16th at the Kenbridge, Va., Presbyterian Church of which he was a member. The lad was only 15, but he had the physique of one much older, and was a promising youth who had the esteem and respect of all who knew him. Besides his parents, he is survived by three sisters, the Misses Catherine, Agnes and Judith Stokes and a younger brother, James. Such dispensations of Providence are hard to be understood.

RICHARDSON. Mrs. Nancy Davis Richardson, wife of Rev. Hilary G. Richardson, Class of 1894, died in Yonkers, N. Y., on June 14, 1945. She was the daughter of Hon. John J. Davis, of Clarksburg, W. Va., and sister of the Hon. John W. Davis, democratic candidate for the Presidency of the United States in 1924. Mrs. Richardson was a writer of prose and poetry and was a collector of folklore.

A Pleasant Annual Habit

"The Alumni Fund has now become one of my most pleasant annual habits. Let any alumnus participate for five successive years in so vital a matter and he would not fail to do so the sixth and subsequent years. What the "habit" needs first is a START. That may be done NOW. Growth of the habit will almost take care of itself."

Athletics

The Tiger athletic program, despite the lack of intercollegiate competition, has continued in full swing durthe summer session. Night softball games have been played and more of these are being planned with the teams of the Farmville League. Strong competition and fine sportsmanship have characterized all of these contests. The Athletic Department feels greatly indebted to the several Farmville teams for so arranging their schedules that these games could be played.

Physical training exercises are held for both Navy and civilian students at four o'clock each afternoon. It is indeed a magnificent spectacle to see old Death Valley full of men engaging in calisthenics and group sports. Chiefs Walter Sprye and John Birkeland are the efficient supervisors of all this activity.

An intramural softball league, composed of the four platoons, is playing off a split schedule of eighteen games. As the end of the first half is nearly reached, only a half game separates the two leading contenders. The winners of the first half and the winners of the second half will meet early in September in a championship series of three games.

With a sharp and apparently steady increase in enrollment and with the return of Coach Frank L. Summers after several months in the Pacific Area, prospects for intercollegiate competition in basket-ball and in all spring sports are indeed good. Fred Young, '43, who last year so successfully coached Junior Varsity will again assist Coach Summers.

Hampden-Sydney's Quietly Won Honors

BY RECORD RESEARCH STAFF

"IN four different studies of nationally recognized leadership, Hampden-Sydney College was among the first colleges in the country in its percentage of living graduates who have achieved note." This is a quotation from the cover of a new Bulletin published by the College under the title "Hampden-Sydney College and A Liberal Arts Education." This statement may surprise some of our alumni who have not followed the history of the College closely in the past two decades. The actual facts supporting this justified claim are as follows:

In 1930, Professors Prentice and Kunkel of Lafayette College published in "School and Society" the results of a long and arduous piece of research in which they compared the colleges of the country in respect to the percentage of living graduates included in Volume XV of Who's Who in America. This study startled the academic world by showing that Hampden-Sydney, an obscure and struggling Southern college with a small enrollment and a pitifully small endowment, led all the other colleges with a percentage of 7.45. This means that one out of every thirteen of our graduates from 1870 on became eligible for inclusion in Who's Who. This compares with one out of every fifty-five for the average American college. The four leading colleges in the country, judged by this yardstick, were Hampden-Sydney, Amherst, Harvard and Wesleyan. All four of these were within one-half of one per cent of each other and are therefore statistically close. Only Hampden-Sydney and Amherst, however, had a record more than four times as good as the average college in the country.

Ten years later Professors Kunkel and Prentice repeated their now celebrated investigation with the 1938-1939 edition of Who's Who and showed a similar pattern but with many shifts in the scale of leadership. Three of the original four remained in this top grouping. Harvard was now first, Amherst second, Hampden-Sydney fourth, and a newcomer, Randolph-Macon, was third. Wesleyan had dropped to eighth. The first four, this time, were so extremely close together in percentage that the difference may not be statistically reliable. Each of the four mentioned was four times as productive as the average college, with a mere tenth of one per cent separating them. Randolph-Macon, our esteemed ancient rival, was six-hundredths of one per cent ahead of us. Evidently, Virginia stands well in the nation. It is interesting to note that the University of Virginia and Washington and Lee occupy, respectively, the twelfth and twentieth places among the 224 colleges in the second "Lafayette Study."

In the October, 1941, issue of the American Association of Colleges Bulletin, Professor B. W. Kunkel published an article entitled "The Representation of American Colleges in Graduate Schools." This is a careful analysis of the percentage of alumni of the various colleges in Graduate Schools of Law, Medicine, Theology, Arts and Sciences. The total number of colleges compared is three hundred and thirty-seven. With 25.6 per cent of her alumni enrolled in such advanced studies, Hampden-Sydney College is first in Virginia, first in the South and eighteenth in the nation. Hampden-Sydney contributes almost twice the national average of all the colleges and universities, in spite of the vastly greater equipment of laboratory and library in the majority of the competing institutions. She stands particularly high in theology and medicine, being eighth in the country in the former and seventh in the latter. It is interesting to note that Randolph-Macon is just behind us in this study, coming second to us in Virginia with 20.4 per cent of her alumni in graduate training or research.

In 1942, Dr. and Mrs. Ira A. Updike reported to the Virginia Academy of Science an extensive study of alumni of Virginia colleges listed in American Men of Science. Here again Hampden-Sydney is close to the top. In the percentage of our graduates who are thus recognized as scientists, we are second among the privately endowed colleges, and fourth among all the colleges. This interesting piece of research has not been completed but the main result substantiates this institution's fine record for producing scholars, as well as leaders.

In the 19th Century, Hampden-Sydney's chief claim to distinction was that she was in the East and South what Princeton was further North, a "Mother of Colleges." For her sons have founded no less than nineteen institutions of higher learning in nine states and one foreign country. In the present century, the quality of her output has become attested, quite independently of her own seeking, by the impartial labors of competent social scientists. For herself, the College has claimed nothing. By her peers, she has been judged worthy of the best traditions of liberal arts culture. Modestly toiling and struggling for a century and three-quarters, she was unaware until recently that her sequestered campus was the scene of any unusual achievement.
